

OBJECTIVE AND TARGET

Pelvic surgery and the management of pelvic fractures has advanced greatly among the Malaysia Orthopaedics community. Unstable pelvic fractures can be fatal, therefore requiring urgent management.

With the emergence of better knowledge of pelvic anatomy and implant systems, most pelvic fractures nowadays managed surgically with improved outcome.

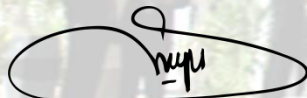

However surgical exposures and fixation techniques differ according to the type of fracture. Therefore the learning curve is long and arduous.

We hope that this kind of workshop will give surgeons sufficient amount of exposure training especially with regard to basic surgical technique and approach to pelvic injury.

We hope that the practical session which is provided during the programme will utilized fully to improve knowledge and to brush up surgical skill besides sharing opinions with others regarding pelvic surgery.

Thank you

Yours truly,

Dato' Dr. Suresh Chopra
